FEMA Administrator Craig Fugate, White House Intergovernmental Affairs Director Cecilia Munoz to Hold Press Conference Call

Media Contact: FEMA News Desk: 202-646-3272 or FEMA-News-Desk@dhs.gov
For Immediate Release: December 6, 2011
Print PDF

WASHINGTON - Tomorrow, Wednesday, December 7 at 10:30 am eastern, Federal Emergency Management Agency Administrator Craig Fugate and White House Director of Intergovernmental Affairs Cecilia Munoz will hold a press conference call with reporters to make an announcement regarding tribal nations and federal disaster aid.

The announcement will come after Fugate, Munoz and other administration officials met with tribal leaders from across the country at the White House Tribal Nations Conference, which the administration hosted last week. Under the leadership of this administration, FEMA has committed to strengthening its government-to-government relationship with tribal nations and furthering engagement with American Indians and Alaska Natives, to better support tribal governments as we work to build more resilient and better prepared communities.

WHAT: Administration Officials Host Press Conference Call

WHEN: Tomorrow, Wednesday, December 7th, at 10:30 am eastern

CALL IN: Number: 1-800-369-1706 Passcode: Tribal

For questions or more information, contact the FEMA Press Office at 202-646-3272. For more information on the White House Tribal Nations Conference, visit http://www.whitehouse.gov/blog/2011/12/02/president-obama-tribal-nations-conference.