

Tribal Resilience

Art Contest

A Changing Environment

Changes in climate patterns have already caused changes to the life-sustaining natural world. Why are changes to the environment important to you? How could a change in the environment impact what's important to you?

What actions can you take to make your community more resilient to these changes? (Resilience is the ability to adapt and bounce back after stress such as environmental changes that happen quickly)

Each of us has a relationship with Mother Earth

We are looking for your story- in the form of art! How does Mother Earth influence your culture? How does your culture influence Mother Earth? Our culture defines how we see the world and how we use Nature's gifts.

What you may need

- Any camera, even a cell phone camera, maybe paint or coloring pencils and canvas paper, or other art materials
- Include your full name, grade, school or Tribe name, and a caption or artistic statement to narrate the artwork
- Submit the photo to the contest by email to youth.art.contest@bia.gov

Categories to Apply to

- Elementary School
- Jr. High School
- High School

Artwork will be Judged on:

- Subject: How clearly are your thoughts expressed in the art?
- Caption or artistic statement: does this help the viewer understand the subject?

Winning Photos

Contestants in 1st, 2nd and 3rd place will have their photos or artwork hung in the hallways of the one of the Department of the Interior buildings. A matching framed photo or other art will be sent to the school with a letter announcing the winners.

Deadlines: Two per Year

- The Spring contest begins March 30th, and photos must be submitted no later than May 14th
- The Fall contest begins September 1st, and artwork submissions must be submitted no later than October 30th

The Bureau of Indian Affairs (BIA) will not use your photo/caption for sale/commercial purposes. By sending your photo you grant the BIA rights worldwide, perpetual license to display, distribute, and reproduce your photo/caption via any medium including the internet, for educational/promotional purposes. BIA intends to use the photos for public education on environmentally-changing impacts in Indian Country and Alaska Native Communities. Selected photos/captions will be reproduced, framed and displayed, or shared on the internet via official Department of the Interior, BIA accounts accessed by the general public. Thank you for your entry.